

The active/current row

Each next generation cell depends on the 3 adjacent cells of the previous generation, i.e., the active/current row

The cells that determine the state of the next generation edge cells. This approach applies to all the elementary cellular automaton rules of this document.